Vienna, December 12.

THE Letters from Hungary tell us, that Count Teckeley hath still so great a Party at Caschaw that they have not only refused an Imperial or Polish Garison, but seem resolved to receive one from him. That it's certain he is retired among the Turks, whose assistance he solicites in order to fall upon the Poles in their Winter-quarters. The Letters add that the Bassa of Buda has burnt the Suburbs of that City, fearing the Imperialists or Poles might reach thither in their Incursions this Winter; and that they were preparing a Convoy for Newheusel, being resolved, whatever it cost them, to put a supply of Provisions into the place; But with this do not agree the advices we have from other hands, which say that the Bassa of Newheusel has received orders to endeavour to retire with the Garison and the best of their Goods to Buda.

Lintz, December 16. Yesterday arrived here from Saltzbourg, the Queen Dutchess of Lorrain, the Duke her Husband having met her several miles out of Town. The Prince of Dietrichstein has taken possession of his place of Steward of the Emperor's Houshold. It is said that the Emperor has thoughts of removing from hence to Prague, because all manner of provisions begin to be very dear here. Our last Letters from Hungary confirm the account we had of Count Teckeley's being retired to Great Waradin, and withal tell us that he has written to the most considerable of the Hungarian Nobility to perswade them to continue firm to the Interests they have engaged in. The Emperor has sent orders to the Count of Esterhasi Palatin of Hungary, to assemble the States of that Kingdom; to whom several matters will be proposed on the part of his Imperial Majesty, for the re-establishing the affairs of that Kingdom. We are told that the King of Poland hath written to the Emperor to acquaint him, that finding his endeavours for the bringing Count Teckeley to his duty, were altogether unsuccessful, he was returning home, to make the necessary preparations against the next Campagne, which he hoped to begin very early. The Turks we hear are laboring all they can to bring a greater Army into the Field the next year than they had this, but whatever their numbers may be, we are assured from all hands they will not be able to repair the loss they have sustained of the flower of their Troops.

Hamburg, December 20. From Copenhagen they write that the King of Denmark had sent orders to all his general Officers to repair thither, his Majesty intending to hold a great Council of War. And that besides the four new Regiments which his Majesty had resolved to raise, there was a discourse of other Levies that would be made against Spring.

From Berlin they write that the Elector of Brandenburg had given out Commissions for the raising several new Troops.

Brussel., December 14. In our last we gave you an account that the Mareschal d'Humieres was come with a body of French Troops to Deynse. On the 10. Instant he decamped from thence, sending at the same time 2000 Horse towards Audenarde to alarm the Spaniards on that side, and another strong Detachment to Marykirke near Gaunt, to make a shew as if they intended to pass the Canal there; and while our Maistre de Camp General was taking care to defend that passage, having for that purpose drawn out greatest part of the Garison of Gaunt the Mareschal d'Humieres marched with 15000 men and nine pieces of Cannon to Belem and Levendeghem in the midway between Gaunt and Bruges, where with the help of their Pontons, they passed the Canal, which was only guarded by some Boors, and entred into the Country, called the old Contribution Lands. The Marquis de Gratia having notice of their march, sent orders to the Governors of Aeth and Audenarde to cause the Horse and Dragoons of their Garisons to march immediately to Gaunt to joyn our Maistre de Camp General in order to hinder their entrance into the Country of Waes, and the Vieuburg of Gaunt, which is supposed to be their Principal design. We have advice that Monsieur de Montal has put Garisons into several places upon the Sambre, and taken other Posts whereby the communication between Namur and Charleroy is cut off, and those places are in a manner blocked up. He came the 12 Instant with 7 or 8000 men to Binch and gave a great alarm to those of Mons, who thought he intended to post himself there; but the next day he marched to Genap, from whence he sent out a detachement of Horse under the command of Monsieur de Chalade, and the last night came to a place called Hulpe within 3 miles of this City, in his march to Tervueren, where the King of Spain has a House. From Luxemburg we have an account by an Express, that the French Troops under the command of the Mareschal de Crequi appeared the 11. Instant before that place. That they have possessed themselves of several Posts near it, and that they were raising a Battery to attack the Town with their Bombs.

Brussels, Decemb. 28. The French Troops commanded by the Mareschal d'Humieres having repassed the Canal of Bruges are retired towards Courtray; They have ruined the Country on the North side of the said Canal, and burnt, as they say here, 14 or 15 Villages, the Inhabitants whereof to the number of 2000, are come to Gaunt. Monsieur de Montal has been in Wallon Brabant, some of his Troops came to Tervueren, within two hours march of this place, and burnt most of the Houses there, the Boors taking Arms several of them were killed. They have also burnt Gembloux, and several other places near Mons and Namur.
